Settlements: What's the Difference?

The Model Village actually represents two settlements - Godshill, and Shanklin Old Village which is nearby.

A "settlement" is a place where people live. This can be as few as one single person, or as many as tens of millions. Settlements exist for a reason - usually where there is an opportunity for work, such as a port, food, such as fertile land, or useful natural resources, such as woodland.

In human geography, there are several different words that are used to describe settlements.

In the section below, draw lines to join up the settlement types with the correct definitions and pictures.

A group of houses and associated buildings, such as churches, shops
